

Katherine Hodson

Katherine Hodson graduated from McGill University's Genetic Counselling Program in 2006. Katherine currently works as a laboratory genetic counsellor at Dynacare, providing support for NIPS as well as other specialty testing. She also provides virtual genetic counselling to patients as part of a partnership with Vitalité Health Network in Moncton, NB. Prior to joining Dynacare in 2015, she developed and managed a private cancer genetic counselling service within a primary care setting and has practiced in a variety of clinical genetics settings in both Oshawa and Saskatoon. Katherine enjoys student supervision and is passionate about introducing genetic counselling students to the varied career opportunities available within a laboratory setting.
