

Alison Cumming

Alison Cumming is a Certified Spiritual Health Practitioner who has her Master's in Theological Studies and post-graduate training in Clinical Psycho-spiritual Education. Spiritual Health Practitioners work as part of the inter-professional care team and are multi-faith and inter-faith trained by the Canadian Association for Spiritual Care. They offer care based on the person's beliefs, cultural background, values, traditions and practices.

Alison was hired to establish BC Cancer's Provincial Spiritual Health program and has recently transitioned to work for the Mennonite Benevolent Society at Menno Place in Abbotsford. She has a deep love of the arts, engaging creativity in all that she does. She is an intercessor, a vocalist, and a playwright.
