

Danna Hull

Danna Hull (she/her) is a Canadian and American certified genetic counsellor with Prenatal Screening Ontario (PSO), housed within BORN Ontario at CHEO. Prior to her role with PSO, she worked for 13 years in the general genetics clinic at Kingston Health Sciences Centre, where she was the inaugural lead GC and Adjunct to the Professor at Queen's University. Through continuous learning and self-reflection, Danna strives to position herself as an ally to translate her health equity knowledge into practice within genetics clinics, PSO and the broader genetic counselling community. She has been a member of BORN's Internal Health Equity Advisory Group since March 2022 and became co-chair in October 2022. Danna is the 2023 President of the CAGC, past co-chair of the Annual Education Conference Committee (AECC), and past lead of the CAGC Stakeholder Newsletter. She is a white settler, cis-gender woman with English, Irish and Scottish ancestry. She resides in Kingston, Ontario, with her husband and two children and enjoys being active in nature, reading, and baking/cooking.
