

Taila Hartley

Taila Hartley, MSc, MSc, CCGC, is a research genetic counsellor and self-described life-long learner. Immediately after graduating from the University of British Columbia's genetic counselling program in 2013, she joined Care4Rare Canada, a research program devoted to enhancing diagnostic care for patients affected with rare diseases. She is currently the Operations Director for Care4Rare as well as a Ph.D. Candidate in Population Health at the University of Ottawa. Her studies focus on knowledge translation and how to optimally implement new diagnostic technologies in the context of rapidly evolving evidence bases.