

Shelin Adam

I am a researcher genetic counsellor interested in the application of new genetic and genomic technology. More specifically, I am interested in understanding the best ways to provide education, decision support and genetic counselling to families being offered genomic sequencing. I work with the Division of Pediatric Neurology at BC Children's Hospital to look at innovative technology-driven ways to improve the way we communicate genetic information to our families.