

Bailey Mitchell

Bailey is a pediatric genetic counselor at Baylor College of Medicine in San Antonio, Texas. She received degrees in Spanish, psychology, and biology from Eastern Illinois University prior to attending Augustana University, where she completed a master's of science in genetic counseling in May of 2022. She became involved with the CAGC through research collaborations during her graduate studies and is thankful for the opportunity to attend and participate in the annual conference for the first time.