

Kiara Lowes

Kiara Lowes is a recent graduate of the University of British Columbia Genetic Counselling program. Kiara's research project focused on the motivators for and outcomes of seeking direct-to-consumer polygenic risk scores. Prior to starting her Master's degree, she completed her undergraduate degree at Simon Fraser University in Molecular Biology and Biochemistry. Kiara is currently working as a genetic counsellor at the Pacific Centre for Reproductive Medicine in Burnaby, BC.