

Nicole Martin-Kenny

Nicole graduated from the University of Toronto Genetic Counselling Program in 2022. She joined the Prenatal Diagnosis Clinic at the McMaster University Medical Centre in Hamilton after graduation. Her current interests include advancements in prenatal diagnosis, clinical implementation of genome-wide sequencing, and equitable access to genetics services. In her spare time, Nicole enjoys listening to podcasts, exercising, and exploring new hiking trails locally and abroad.