

Nicola Kopac

Nicola is a researcher in the Collaboration for Outcomes Research and Evaluation (CORE) at the University of British Columbia's Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences, contributing to research in genetic services and the genetics workforce. She received her MPH in Clinical Epidemiology from the University of Alberta, and has a background in clinical research, evidence synthesis, and epidemiology.